

Love Snoqualmie Valley

2025 Annual Report

Dear Friends,

2025 was a year that reminded us just how strong the Snoqualmie Valley community truly is.

Throughout the year, volunteers from across the valley stepped forward to serve their neighbors in practical and meaningful ways. From improving community spaces to supporting local nonprofits, we saw individuals, families, businesses, and community groups come together to strengthen the places we all call home.

One of the most powerful moments came when flooding impacted so much of the Snoqualmie Valley. In response, volunteers quickly mobilized to help with cleanup and recovery efforts. Local businesses provided financial support and volunteer teams, and community organizations opened their doors to support neighbors in need. It was a powerful reminder that the strength of our valley lies in the willingness of people to care for one another.

In addition to emergency response efforts, Love Snoqualmie Valley continued coordinating volunteer projects with local organizations throughout the year and hosted our annual Volunteer Day, bringing together people from across the valley to serve side-by-side.

This work would not be possible without the support of our volunteers, partner organizations, sponsors, and community leaders who believe in the power of serving together.

Thank you for being part of this mission.

Together, we are continuing to build a stronger, more connected Snoqualmie Valley.

With gratitude,

Danielle Cox

Executive Director

Love Snoqualmie Valley

our mission

Love Snoqualmie Valley (LSV) is a community-driven local non-profit dedicated to fostering connection, service, and collaboration in our beautiful Snoqualmie Valley. Our mission is simple yet profound: to unify the Snoqualmie Valley by serving side by side with our neighbors: bridging the gap between non-profits, government, faith organizations, schools, and the public through volunteer opportunities. By working together, we amplify the efforts of our community's non-profits and organizations, creating a ripple effect of impact that touches lives in meaningful ways. We don't seek to reinvent the wheel. Instead, we come alongside existing organizations, supporting their missions by mobilizing volunteers and raising awareness and ensuring these organizations have the resources and people power they need to thrive and do what they do best.

Story of Impact:

"Your team of volunteers were truly wonderful and made a big difference for us. We had SO much cleanup, so having people come through to help sanitize helped a lot. We also had some folks help us move heavy items out of the house, and give us good advice on a submerged vehicle, how to dry it and get it working again. Having the reoccurring dump runs took so much off our plate. Incredibly grateful for how helpful our community is!!"

Neighbors Showing Up For Neighbors

One of the things we see again and again at Love Snoqualmie Valley is that people want to help — they just need an opportunity. When flooding impacted every part of the Snoqualmie Valley in December of 2025, volunteers quickly stepped forward to help with cleanup and recovery. Neighbors helped neighbors move debris, clear properties, and restore spaces that had been affected. Local businesses also stepped forward — providing both financial support and volunteer teams to assist with recovery efforts. We would like to specifically thank: Books and Bottles, Pineapple Life, Red Pepper Pizza, Aroma Coffee Co, Mt Si Sports & Fitness, Freestone Collective, and Pacific Sound Energy. These were not just organized service projects. They were moments where people simply showed up to care for one another. This is the heart of Love Snoqualmie Valley. We are also grateful for the partnership of local city leaders and municipal staff across the Snoqualmie Valley, whose collaboration and coordination helped ensure that volunteer efforts could support broader community recovery. Their leadership and willingness to work alongside us and the community partners made a meaningful difference during a challenging time.
